Famous White Horse

Badly Needs a Bath The white horse on Bratton down, Westbury, Wilts, England, one of the largest landmarks of the kind in the country, is badly in need of cleaning. The chalk surface has become more or less overgrown with weeds, and many of the border stones have been dislodged and rolled down the hill, apparently by picnic parties.

Westbury urban district council has recently considered the question tions to the estate agent of Lord Bath, who owns the land, and it is expected that the work of renovation will shortly begin.

The horse is still well defined, and its shape preserved, and only the usual periodical cleaning and replacing of a number of border stones is necessary. This horse is 170 feet from more to tail, and 160 feet from ears to feet. Tradition asserts that it was first out to commemorate King Alfred's victory over the Danes at Ethandune.-Vancouver Province.

BIRTHPLACE OF HYMN MARKED BY TABLET

History of "He Leadeth Me' Told by Author.

Philadelphia.-A bronze tablet has been placed by the United Gas Im provement company on its new build-ing here as a permanent marker of the birthplace of the hymn "He Lead-eth Me," and the historic fact that the First Baptist church once stood on the present site of the company's building. The tablet was erected on the Arch street side of the building. It bears date of June 1, 1926, erection naving been delayed by the building of the new structure and the construc-tion of the subway.

Information that paved the way for the erection of the tablet was given two years ago by the late Rev. Dr. John Gordon, a Baptist clergyman who pointed to a brownstone dwelling at 1409 Arch street, adjoining the ner building, and said: "That old dwell ing has a remarkable history; a won derful hymn, 'He Leadeth Me.' was written there. The Rev. Dr. Gilmor wrote it way back in the '60s hymn has been sung all over world.

Words Set to Music

Dr. Gilmore, in his own account of the writing of the hymn, said:
"As a young man I was supplying for a couple of Sundays the pulpit of the First Baptist church in Philadel phia. At the midweek servicethe twenty-sixth of March, set out to give the people an exposi-tion of the twenty-third Psalm, which I had given before on three or four occasions; but this time I did not get further than the words, 'He leadeth me.' Those words took hold of me as they had never done before. I saw they had never done before. I saw in them a significance and beauty of which I had never dreamed.

"At the close of the meeting a few "At the close of the meeting a few of us kept on talking about the thought. I had emphasized; and then and there, on a blank page of the brief from which I had intended to speak, I penciled the hymn, handed to my wife and thought no more about It. "It occurred to her months after-ward to send the hymn to a paper published in Boston, where it was printed. It attracted the attention of william B. Bradbury, who slightly modified the refrain and set the hymn to the music which has done so much to promote its popularity.

Hears His Hymn Sung. "I did not know until 1865 that my hyma had been set to music. I went to Rochester to preach as a candidate before the Second Baptist church, Going into their chapel on the day that I reached the city, I took up a hymnal to see what they sang, and opened it at my own hymn, 'He Leadeth Me.' I accepted it as an indication of divine guidance, and have no doubt I was right."

MYRON POTTLE, proprietor of Pottle's Peerless Eating House greeted his customers with more than his susual pride, for the restaurant which had been in busine than twenty years was newly decorated and this was like another opening day. Uniformed waitresses stood expectantly beside the tables in place of the men who had served and in the center of each white cloth was a vase

Ed sensed the change when he arrived to take on the twelve o'clock shift. He looked at the girls as if he doubted his senses. There had never been a waitress here before. This was a man's shop. And now they were all girls, all except himself. It struck him that perhaps Myro would keep him as a sort of overseer. He would need some one to show the girls how things were done, how to work the butter cutter, the egg boile and the coffee urn. A steady head among the bobbed, he reflected, was what was needed. As Myron, dreading to break the news, said nothing Ed took heart and tried to step brisk-stage of fashion.

Indeed so popular have snakeskin effects become that some of the new-est silks for blouse and for sear, for coat linings and dress trimmings are printed in snakeskin patternings. which proves again that "imitation is the sincerest flattery."

Now comes along a new tribute to the fashionable serpent—the snake-skin raincoat made of rubberized fabric imitating reptile effect.

As a trimming snakeskin is really vonderfully attractive. Some of autumn's smartest jersey dresses in two plece styling are detailed with pockets of snakeskin with narrow bands inserted at wristline and on the collar, also fusibling the ends of a scarf tie.

Unbroken lines from neck to hem is the most approved styling this season.
In the soft crepes and ginghams this is accomplished by means of smocking shirring, tucking and platting, which allows the fullness to fall from the shoulder. Not only is the peasant-type frock heavily smocked, but this same form of handlwork is very popular throughout all juvenile styling.

of Great Descent "Tracing one's ancestry is a rank fallacy," declares Albert Payson Terhune, who has just completed a year's study of genealogical research for American Magazine and is now attacking the growing fad.

"In the first place few people realize that perhaps millions of ancestors, good and bad, have intervened between themselves and the illustrious tween themselves and the illustrious person from whom they claim to have descended," he says in summing up his studies. "Secondly, several milion other people, if they took the trouble, could boast of the same lineage. Thirdly, boasting of a great ancestor is a confession of inferiority if the descendant has not lived up to If the descendant has not lived up to

THE MOST important element in business success—and the most difficult—is to be sure that you have all the facts before you act.

To GET them all, from every possible source, is the first objective in General Motors. The Research Laboratories contribute some. These are nuggets, left in the crucible, after hundreds of ideas that looked good have been burned away. The Proving Ground contributes others. Dealers contribute. The public contributes. Every department contributes. Through the whole organization runs a spirit of inquiry and of rigid insistence on proof.

Our or such thinking come the new models announced from time to time by Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle, Cadillac-all with Fisher Bodies. And by Frigidaire. Each new model is a tested step forward. Nothing goes into it as a result of habit or guess or pride of opinion.

Nothing counts but hard-won facts, gathered and used with an open mind.

Ringlings and Barnum & Bailey Have Sacred White Elephant

Hailed as the greatest feature of all time." Pawah, the world famed sacred white elephant of Burmah is to be presented in the menagerie of Ringling Bros. and and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows when the big circus exhibits at San Francisco three days, Sept. 2 3 4. Pawah is the first of his kind to be found in more than 300 years and the only genuine sacred white elephant ever brought to America. He is accompanied by his supreme keeper, Dr. S. D. Po Min and attended by a retinue of 14 native Burmese. The present is Pawah's only season in America the Ringling Bros. being under bond to return him to Burmah at the close of the tour.

This rarest of beasts was found eight years ago in the jungles of Lower Burma, midway between Mandalay and Ragoon. Last summer he was brought to Eugland under the protection of the British government.

The bringing of the white elephant to America is in furtherance of the Ringling policy of constant enlargment

A hundred double length railway cars are required to transport its ten thousand marvels, plus a special Pullman for Pawah and at-

Tells of Ancient History After lying 45 years at the bot tom of the Suas canal, a block of red granite, inscribed with the Lybian campaign of the Pharach Meneptah, has been transferred to the Cairo museum. The block was disgovered near Repha in 1882, but while being conveyed to Caire on board a barge it broke through the bottom and sank: It weighs eight tons. Meneptah was the pharach whose record of a campaign in Palestine contains the sarliest known reference to the children of Israel. Radio Runs Quartz Motor

Having as its rotating part small plate cut from a quartz crystal, a motor run by radio has been perfected by Dr. Alexander Meissner, a radio engineer of Germany. Placed in a radio circuit, the cays tal vibrates and sets up air currents that cause it to spin. - Scientists, who have seen the novel motor, say that quartz sibrations in radio will keep broadcasting stations exactly on a wavelength.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON FRANCINE'S THRIFT

As Helen settled herself in Auni Emmy's big chair she said: "Jack Sunt has bought the Briggs place. I never was so astonished in my life. Jack didn't have a dollar when he married Francine and now he's bought a house."

"Well, my dear, it's not so surprising to me. Francine is responsible for their prasperity."
"Why. Aunt Emmy, I thought she was awuly frivolus. I remember how disappointed I was when Jack married her. She seemed entirely teo pretty and too well dressed to be a good wife. When I dined at their house I thought she was frightfully extravagant about her table. She must have paid her cook a lot to have the food she served."
"Aunt Emmy smiled. "I liked Fran-

the food she served."

"Aust Emmy smiled. "I liked Fran-sine from the first," she said. "She and I became good friends. She told me how worried she was became Jack did not seem to think of the future and nover tried to save money. Everything about housekeeping was so new to her that she was glad to come to me with ber little problems. I advised her to save regularly, no matter vised her to save regularly, no matter how hard it might be. She coaxed Jack to open an account at the banh for her household money. He thought it was silly because they had so little. She said abe could keep more accurate accounts if she had a bank account. He said they didn't have enough to keep track of. She insisted she want ed to learn to keep accounts. Then, when they got rich, she'd know how, "I den't need to tell you how they prespered. Three ef the sweetest childyen in the world, and now a house!

"I don't need to tell you how they prespered. Three of the sweetest children in the world, and new a house! dack is ground as he can he."
"You," interrupted Helen, "but hew did she de it?"
"The very first wook after she etart of her checking account at the bank size, took the money she saved and abouted a savingsh account in the thrift department, where she got interest on her savings. You see, she was determined to save at least 10 per cent of her inogme. She saved steadily. She asked me to help her plan things out and ingether we worked out a highest so she could divide her income to mast her gapeness. When her plan war working well she told Jack.
"He was ticklied to death. Then he began to asve too. Prancine wanted a real home. They saved for that. They have been married sky pars now and thing haven't a debt in the world. To't epoclicut feed, my dear, was all prepared by Francine herself, just as her prejty clothes are made by her from remnants and odds and ends she pleins up at hargain prices."—A. B.
